Site of natural gas line opposed

By Meg Tebo
Staff writer

CHOUTEAU TOWNSHIP — A group of protesters is signing petitions for an investigation into the safety of a natural gas line being installed at Lakeview Drive and Morrison Road, the area known as Tank Town.

The protesters, most of whom live along Lakeview Drive, contend that an old Mobil Oil Co. petroleum line is not in good enough condition to be converted to a natural gas line.

"They line runs behind some residences on Lakeview Drive and under some area playgrounds."

"We don't want to say they can't have a pipeline," said Glen Johnson, who lives on Lakeview Drive. "We just want them to move it away from our homes. Why can't they use the railroad right-of-way or something like that?"

Officials of Illini Carrier, the company that bought the line and is extending it to Alton, Sauget and Granite City Steel, said all safety standards are being met and even exceeded. The line will be tested to assure its safety, they said.

"We have been through zoning hearings and the approval process and we are

Line to Missouri next?

The new natural gas line soon to be in operation near Granite City may be followed quickly by a line to be built by Natural Gas Pipeline Co. of America. The latter line crosses the Mississippi River to serve Laclede Gas Co. of St. Louis.

Ken Smith, a spokesman for MidCon Corp., NGPL's parent company, said

NGPL has applied for federal permission to build the line, which would run from an NGPL facility at Centralia through Clinton and Madison counties and across the river into St. Louis County.

Smith said the project will cost $29.4 million and will run 56.25 miles.

doing everything possible to ensure the safety of residents," said John Gray, president of Torch Energy Marketing, the parent company of Illini Carrier.

Officials at the Illinois Commerce Commission, which has jurisdiction over the project, said Illini Carrier has received all the proper certifications from the commission to complete the project, and met safety and location standards.

The protesters also contend that Illini Carrier has "done something" to cause Long Lake to turn red at various times.

"We are not using any water from Long Lake, nor are we pumping anything into the lake. The part of the lake where they say the redness occurred is not even near where our pipe crosses the lake. We have no idea what caused the redness, but we don't think it was our project," said Gray.

Illini Carrier officials said all the water they plan to use will be brought in by truck and removed to a disposal site.

An official at Illinois Power Co., which also runs similar projects, confirmed Illini Carrier's contention that moving any portion of a natural gas line is a very expensive proposition.

According to federal safety standards, a used line such as this must pass an extensive series of tests before being allowed to operate. Illini Carrier officials said the line will be tested at 1,300 pounds per square inch (psi) of pressure, although it will only operate at a maximum of 800 psi.

This is not considered an inordinate amount of pressure for a line of this type, according to both Illini Carrier and Illinois Power officials.

Residents had argued that 800 psi was too high for this pipeline.

Illini Carrier previously provided information showing that the line is being X-rayed and will be water-tested and air pressure-tested before any gas is released into the line.

A system of human- and computer-controlled devices will monitor the system 24 hours per day, and automatic shutoffs will operate if the system produces any danger signs.

"Of course, we are concerned about complaints received from residents. We have met with Mr. Johnson at length to discuss his concerns and we remain confident that all safety standards are met," Gray said.

Library to wait for vote

By Mike Myers

GRANITE CITY — The Library Board decided Tuesday wasn't the right time to ask the City Council to allow it to withdraw from city government.

"We felt it wouldn't pass the City Council," said Library Board member Ron Coleman. "So we'll just put it on the ballot March 2 and let the voters decide."

Alderman Dan Brown, chairman of the Intergovernmental Committee, passed that message along to fellow aldermen Tuesday and no action was taken.

As a part of the Granite City government, the library is limited to an area that is co-extensive with the boundaries of Granite City. The board is seeking to become a regional district and expand its boundaries to include the entire area that is under the jurisdiction of the Granite City School District.

Granite City voters will decide in March whether to create a regional district, and (See LIBRARY, Page 6A)

Fire guts empty duplex

GRANITE CITY — A 1½-story unoccupied brick duplex at 1704-06 State St. was gutted by a "suspicious" fire Tuesday night that caused an estimated $18,000 in damage.

An investigation into the cause of the fire, which started at 9:30 p.m., has been initiated, Fire Chief Charles Bernaix said Wednesday.

Firefighters remained at the scene four hours and returned there at 6:10 a.m. Wednesday when the fire rekindled.

"When we got there, fire was coming out of all the doors and windows and the south side of the house was totally involved," Bernaix said. "The doors were burned through."

"The fire got into the attic on one side of the duplex and had to cut a hole in the roof to vent it."

"We are calling the fire suspicious in origin. We did the investigation at the scene and then turned it over to the police," Bernaix said.

Terry Long of Granite City, son of the property owner who recently died, was notified, the chief said. Some furniture was destroyed, he said.

Golf course a classic battle

By Meg Tebo
Staff writer

EDWARDSVILLE — What's the price of beauty and solitude?

That question, posed Wednesday by a speaker at a hearing held on a proposed golf course at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, sums up the battle between nature lovers and those interested in the economic and social stature of the university.

On one side are those who say removing part of the university's nature trail to allow the construction of a privately-controlled golf course would be selling out the school's educational mission for commercial success.

On the other side are those who say adding a golf course would improve the image of the university and aid in recruitment of top athletes and faculty who look at a school's overall image as a factor in choosing where to play or teach.

They also say that since the golf course wouldn't cost the university any money, and would eventually revert to university ownership after several decades, it would be an economically prudent way for the university to allow developers to build the course.

The proposed site encompasses about 300 acres within the boundaries of South University Drive, Circle Drive, Whiteside Drive and Bluff Road on university property.

The golf course would be open to the public for a daily fee. Faculty, students, and others affiliated with the university would be able to use the facility at a reduced rate. Some university classes would also use the course.

Speakers representing various campus factions, including faculty, students and athletes, spoke at the hearing.

Faculty members seemed split as a group on the proposal, with those representing such disciplines as biology, sociology and conservation studies opposed and several from the school of dentistry in favor.

"The biology department has certain programmatic needs which would be impacted by this golf course," said a man who identified himself as a member of the biology faculty.

"This is right in line with the educational mission of a university — to provide both recreational (See GOLF COURSE, Page 6A)

State sues Granite City Steel for air pollution

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — The state of Illinois has filed a seven-count lawsuit against Granite City Steel charging it with a number of air pollution violations at various times from 1987 through 1989.

The suit, alleging the company allowed a number of illegal emissions into the air, was filed Friday in Madison County Circuit Court by Attorney General Neil Hargan.

If the allegations are supported in court, Granite City Steel could face more than $130,000 in penalties. None of the emissions were "life-threatening," according to the attorney general.

The suit is based on information provided by the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency, according to Dennis Orsey, Hargan's Granite City regional office.

Orsey said it is standard practice for the IEPA to monitor industry and, if violations are found, turn the case over to the attorney general for prosecution.

Bob Maxwell, spokesman for Granite City Steel, said Tuesday the company had not finished its review of the suit and doesn't consider it appropriate to discuss pending litigation.

The specific counts listed in the suit are:

• Uncontrolled particulate emissions were released by the Basic Oxygen Furnace from July 9, 1987, through Sept. 25, 1987, when it continued to operate the No.

Expert calls health risk 'cause for concern'

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Particulate pollution in the air is cause for concern, according to Dan McDowell, director of Pulmonary Services at St. Elizabeth Medical Center. But he said deciding how much concern there should be depends on a lot of factors and educated guesses.

"Anytime something is being inhaled into the lungs there is a potential for damage," McDowell said. "A lot depends on the actual size of the particles."

Particles measuring between 3 and 5 microns, he said, can be inhaled into the very lowest part of the lungs.

"That's basically a mist, like you see with the (clean air machines) at stores," he said. "At that size, the particles are practically gravity-resistant and can stay in all areas of the lungs and lodge there."

"At that point, the lungs' defenses start to work to eat up the particles. That causes scar tissue and, as a result, the lungs become less elastic."

The Granite City area has a "geographic surplus," or more than its share, of chronic obstructive pulmonary disease patients, McDowell said, but a lot is due to the medical history of the particular patients.

"A lot are blue-collar who worked in heavy industry and were smokers. Undoubtedly the quality of the air in the area you live in plays a part. But how much of a part is just a guess."

Years ago, he said, the air quality of the area was routinely monitored, but that program was cut because of cost considerations. He said persons who think they are being hurt by air quality should take precautions.

"Even if you live in the city with the dirtiest air in the state, which Granite City is, and breathe the air all day every day, it wouldn't have nearly the adverse effect of smoking just one pack of cigarettes (a day)," he said.

"With particulate matter, the body has a lot of natural defenses. Take someone working with sandblasting — at the end of an 8-hour shift he can blow his nose and see a lot has been filtered out."

"With smoking, it doesn't work that way. When you smoke, you inhale right to the depths of the lungs, and then close your lips and trap it there."

• From Sept. 15, 1987, through Sept. 19, 1987, the Basic Oxygen Furnace opened the lance on its No. 1 vessel while water spray nozzles required by its operating permit were inoperative. The suit seeks a $10,000 penalty and an additional $1,000 for each day the violation continued.

• Visible smoke or other particulate matter was seen released into the atmosphere on Sept. 21, 1988, from the electrostatic precipitator at the Basic Oxygen Furnace and opacity meter readings were in excess of the maximum allowed limits. The suit seeks a $10,000 penalty and an additional $1,000 for each day the violation continued.

The incident started when police received a report of two persons acting suspiciously at the rear of Domino's Pizza at 22nd Street and Madison Avenue and saw the pair running behind a dumpster.

Hart was alleged to have two partially smoked marijuana cigarettes in his shirt pocket and was placed in the rear of a squad car with the juvenile being told to stay away from the car, police said.

While an officer was checking behind the dumpster for discarded items, the 16-year-old boy allegedly opened the squad car door, allowing Hart to escape, and both fled from the scene.

The younger boy was caught nearby and Hart was captured in the 2200 block of Adams Street. In a court appearance Nov. 28, Hart pleaded innocent and bond was set at $3,000. He was transferred to the Madison County Jail at Edwardsville.

Trone, who advised them to enter the house, using minimal force. An officer removed a glass pane from the rear door to gain entry.

Bordon was found inside and was served a parole revocation warrant and a Madison County warrant alleging felony retail theft.

Also at the home was Robert Sterling Gilbert, 36, of Granite City who was served a warrant for probation revocation.

Both were taken to police headquarters and later were transferred to the Madison County Jail in Edwardsville.

The incident occurred at 13th Street and Edwardsville Road when the assailant walked up to David J. Wise Jr. of the 2200 block of 14th Street and asked him a question. The assailant then knocked down the victim, punched him and kicked him several times.

October job rate called good

The employment picture continued to look rosy in the Quad City area and Madison County during October, said Velda Gerstenecker, an analyst with the state Department of Employment Security.

Despite an increase in unemployment from September, employment is at a five-year high for October and unemployment is at a five-year low for the month.

The unemployment rate in the Quad Cities in the newly completed survey was 8.4 percent, indicating 15,475 jobs for a labor force of 18,900, compared to 7.6 percent in September and 9.3 percent one year ago.

In Madison County, the rate was 6.4 percent, with 116,000 employed in a labor force of 123,950, compared to 5.7 percent in September and 6.7 percent a year ago.

The lost jobs were the result of routine seasonal swings, Gerstenecker said. These include the closing of summer youth employment programs and outdoor recreational facilities, plus downturns in petroleum refining and clothing manufacturing.

The rate in St. Clair County was 7.6 percent, or 109,025 jobs in a labor force of 142,050, compared to 7.2 percent in September and 8.7 percent one year ago.

City passes 1990 tax levy

MADISON — The City Council on Nov. 28 passed a 1989-90 tax levy ordinance and resolution for a reinstated tax levy for streets.

The new levy and changes in existing levies are expected to raise an extra $132,000 over last year's levy.

A breakdown of the new $292,550 levy on the real estate assessment base shows $115,000 for liability insurance, $90,000 for the Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund and Social Security, $76,000 for police pensions, $40,000 for repayment of long-term debt, $22,500 for library costs, $21,357 for police department expenses, $14,238 for the street department and $13,500 for playgrounds and recreation.

The overall city budget is $101,000 less than last year's — $2,404,678 compared to $2,505,195.

Major budget totals include $444,085 for police, $366,750 for the street department, $174,520 for motor fuel tax-financed projects, $135,200 for liability insurance, $131,130 for costs related to the City Council, $107,000 for health and life insurance premiums, $101,441 for police pensions, $40,000 for municipal retirement, $96,950 for refuse collection and $80,000 for shopping center insurance and maintenance.

Transit board offers region $250,000

By Andy Siering
Staff writer

MADISON COUNTY — The local transit authority is voicing a willingness to spend hundreds of thousands of dollars toward transportation development.

The Board of Trustees of the Madison County Transit District passed a resolution in principle Nov. 30 to provide up to $250,000 to the Leadership Council of Southwestern Illinois for planning and promoting regional transportation projects.

A formal written agreement must still be executed between the two groups, said Jerry Kane, the district's managing director.

The projects mentioned in the district's resolution include something not much publicized before: Construction of a new Mississippi River bridge linking Madison County with St. Louis County.

Jim Pennkamp, executive director of the Leadership Council, said another bridge would be needed within 20 years. "It is definitely something people are beginning to discuss," he said.

Other projects include:

• Completion of the Federal Aid Primary 413 road project linking Interstate 255 at I-270 with Illinois 267 in Godfrey Township.

• Improvement of the McKinley Bridge between Venice and St. Louis and integrating it into the present interstate highway system. Local mayors have placed that high on their priority list during recent talks.

• Full funding of the Clark Bridge replacement in Alton.

• Expansion of an integrated bus-rail system throughout Madison and St. Clair counties.

• Support of whatever is necessary to develop Scott Air Force Base for joint military and civilian use.

Transit Chairman Nelson Hagnauer of Granite City said all the projects are "of vital importance" to Madison County and called the road extending I-255 to the north "a top priority."

Pennkamp said the fact that the Madison County group was willing to support the Scott project near Belleville even though it is outside the county "speaks well of what Scott means to the regional area."

He also praised the Transit District for having taken a lead role in pushing for the rehabilitation of the Martin Luther King Bridge in 1986. The district was the first governmental entity to pledge money for the buyout of the bridge from East St. Louis and bridge bondholders.

"That would not be a reality today if not for their participation," Pennkamp said.

Hagnauer, who is also Madison County Board chairman, said the need for a new river bridge is "already evident."

Pontoon OKs new 24-home subdivision

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

PONTOON BEACH — A final plat for a new 24-home subdivision north of Arlington Heights was approved Saturday at a recessed meeting of village trustees.

The 10-acre tract of land at 22 Kelly Drive, owned by Charles Luehmann, is proposed for development by Donna Hogan, who owns adjacent property at 2 Dublin Drive.

Charles "Skip" Parmley and his wife, Brenda, have led spirited opposition by nearby residents to the proposed construction, citing a high water table and a lack of natural drainage, a need for adequate roads to handle traffic, and the prospect of the area changing from a rural setting to a more populous environment.

Kelly Hogan, the developer's son, had presented the final plat for the Hogan Manor subdivision at the Nov. 28 meeting, which was recessed to allow some revisions and to permit attendance by Jim Stuart, village engineer, or John Hales, Hales is a consulting engineer from the Shepherd, Morgan and Schwaab engineering firm.

Both Stuart and Hales were at Saturday's session.

After a lengthy discussion, voting to approve the plat were Trustees Bob Abel, Louis Whitsell, Irene Karlechik, Marvin Ribbing and Loren Madison. Trustee Robert Douglas cast the lone dissenting vote.

In response to questions from Ribbing, Kelly Hogan said street lights are planned for the area and all utilities will be underground.

Tipping the scales in gaining approval by the board were changes agreed to by Luehmann, including retaining a 25-foot strip of land between the Parmleys' and Luehmann's property for a possible future road or for other easement purposes.

The Parmleys also have an adjacent 25-foot strip set aside for such purposes. The couple vocally expressed doubt about Luehmann's intentions without seeing written proof.

Luehmann was not at Saturday's meeting, but Stuart assured the Parmleys that Luehmann had signed an agreement Nov. 28 to retain the strip as outlots.

An injunction request had been filed in Madison County Circuit Court on behalf of the Parmleys, seeking to prevent Luehmann from selling the property without dedicating a 25-foot easement on his land, John C. Haynes, attorney for the Long Lake Fire Department, said Saturday.

The lawyer was representing the fire department at the session and not the Parmleys, he said.

The agreement also provides that either party could put in a road along the 50-foot strip and that the other party would not be liable for maintenance and other expense unless using the road.

Hogan agreed to install a temporary turn-around instead of a dead-end at the terminus of the principal street through the proposed subdivision.

This concern was raised Nov. 28 by Whitsell, who proposed a temporary turning area to permit traffic to turn around without entering private driveways.

Streets must be left somewhat open-ended to allow access to adjacent property on which those owners may wish to build, Hogan said, although he didn't discount the idea that temporary measures could be taken.

"I'm still concerned about drainage," Whitsell said. He had been joined in the drainage questioning Nov. 28 by Ribbing, who suggested approval be delayed until an engineer was present.

Douglas asked about the aeration system proposed for the property and was told that sewer and state and county authorization.

Stuart said the system will be inspected by Madison County health authorities, who have been delegated that power by the Illinois Department of Public Health.

Natural drainage on the property is to the north, Stuart said.

Surface drainage will include three catchbasins installed on the Kelly Drive side of the tract, with pipes leading to an existing ditch.

A ditch system also will be installed along the back property line, Stuart said.

Charles Parmley was skeptical about the aeration system proposal, "I have an aeration system on my property and I've still got standing water."

"What's going to happen when there are 24 more houses there? It's going to be a mess," Parmley said after the meeting.

Twenty-four single-family residences are proposed for the property, with building lots ranging in size from 75 to 90 feet front footage and a depth of 120 to 140 feet.

Granite schools seeking persons for crossing guards

By Meg Tebo
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — District 9 officials are seeking people willing to be school crossing guards is not an easy task, despite the large number of people on substitute lists hoping to get other part-time district jobs.

The school board on Tuesday approved Superintendent Gib

Walmsley's request to take out newspaper ads to inform the public of the availability of crossing guard positions at two of the district's elementary schools.

The positions pay upwards of $60 a week for about three hours' work per day.

Part of the reason for the lack of interest, Walmsley said, is that the positions require the guards to be on duty before school in the morning, again at lunch time and again in mid-afternoon at the end of the school day. Some people, Walmsley said, just don't want to break up the day that way.

"The excellent candidate would be a retired person or maybe a mother of elementary school children who doesn't otherwise work outside the home," Walmsley said.

Matthew 5:9: "Blessed are the peacemakers: For they shall be called the children of God."

The Christian community should be recognized as those who have peace that passes understanding. The reason of course, being that we are owned by the Prince of Peace — Jesus Christ.

Peace is not a plant. It is not reasoned out, thought out, or tested to see if it will work. God's ways are far above our ways and past finding out. Human reasoning and the peace of God are not always in agreement. Praying for those who seek peace, accepting persecution — these things cannot be reasoned out. Yet, they do bring about the conditions of peace because they are God's ways.

This is the season of peace, and we should do everything in our power to make it as great as it can be. Let's do it. Today.

SIUE early childhood center collects pennies for Apples

Young Joel Hunsley weighs about 6,200 pennies.

How's that? Well, that's the way the Early Childhood Center of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville looks at it.

The Center will be celebrating its 20th anniversary soon and, in order to mark the occasion, the staff hopes to raise one million pennies. The Center's penny drive is specifically earmarked for a computer literacy program.

SIUE's Jim Hunsley, an assistant professor of chemistry, has donated his son's weight in pennies. Joel weighs approximately 40 pounds, roughly equivalent to 6,200 pennies, according to a Center scale on which the pennies were weighed.

Hunsley said that when the kids at the Center saw all the pennies "they were excited, with a little bit of panic there," but calmed down after they could put their hands in the box and feel the coins.

This campaign to collect pennies has been called an investment for the future of the Center. The funds collected from this project will go toward the growth, development and maintenance of the computer literacy program at the Center, according to Early Childhood Center Director LaVern Wilson.

The Center currently has several Apple II computers, and the funds will be used to purchase speech synthesizers, computer "joy sticks" and quality software in order to make the computers more accessible to a larger number of children. Also, more computers will be needed in the future.

Hunsley is challenging other faculty and staff members to do the same and would like to see faculty members who use this facility help out in this way, "especially those with heavy kids," he said jokingly.

Other forms of contribution include an aluminum can collection at the Center's entrance and a donation of aluminum cans from the SIUE Religious Center, all recycled, with proceeds going toward the penny fund drive.

APPLE PENNIES: Jim Hunsley, assistant professor of chemistry at SIUE weighs 40 pounds of pennies, the weight of his son, Joel, at SIUE's Early Childhood Center. His donation, roughly equivalent to 6,200 pennies, will go toward the Center's computer literacy program. The goal is to accumulate one million pennies before May, marking the Center's 20th anniversary.

Bob Chandler of Hazelwood had the first in the fight. Willman and Shafer had falling out and went their separate ways in 1984.

But the two men and Chandler continue to dominate the monster truck scene.

Which makes this part of the country both the birthplace and the final of the sport.

Willman said it all:

"When people on the west coast — or the the south or north or Australia — when they want the latest technology on monster trucks, they come right here."

Pontoon: too many faces

On the brink of what we are sure is the greatest growth of its history, Pontoon Beach is doing itself no favors by letting village board members scrap and wrangle like kids.

It's becoming increasingly obvious that the arguments taking place at these meetings are becoming more mired in personalities and less dedicated to problem-solving.

The St. Louis Aquacenter is a prime example of ongoing differences. On Tuesday, Nov. 28, the board voted 4-2 to take $50,000 out of a bond program to pay for a study on the feasibility of Pontoon being the site of the $36 million Aquacenter. On the following Saturday the board reconvened and voted 4-2 to stop the issuance of the above bonds until receipt of an audit. That essentially delays the Aquacenter study and several other development projects in the Chouteau Trace area for an indeterminate amount of time.

Why, taxpayers ask, did the board do one thing and then reverse itself? Why put on one face Tuesday and another Saturday? Why delay a project of this magnitude?

Officials must consider what kind of face they are showing to outside observers. How can any prospective developer take seriously estranged trustees? If penny ante issues raise anger, what would happen to the important ones?

Pontoon doesn't need unnecessary expenses, and it is right for trustees to pose questions. But we sense more here, something just under the surface, and we suggest an examination of motives. Are trustees serving their future political interests by creating uncertainty? Or are they thinking about Pontoon and the explosion of growth that lies ahead?

This is a simple test. If trustees say the latter, then they will have correctly answered the question and passed the test. If not, their days in public service are numbered.

Rate-raise issue complex

An Illinois Commerce Commission hearing Dec. 14 in Granite City will deal with an electricity rate increase requested by Illinois Power Co.

Some points to consider:

- Many families, including those on fixed incomes, would like to see power costs remain the same, or decrease.
- Utility officials and shareholders are urging a 28.2 percent, or $265 million, rate boost.
- The ICC staff favors an increase of 18.8 percent, or $151 million. The commission itself has not yet decided.

And there are questions that must be answered: How badly was IP's Clinton plant needed? Should the public have to pay for excessive construction costs? If the utility's income is curtailed, ending its ability to attract investors, will there be maintenance cutbacks and future blackouts — harmful to senior citizens and others who depend on cooling and other power-related services? Such questions are complicated. But we await the answers.

Holiday becomes infectious

There are some things in the world that must be taken for granted. Christmas is one of them.

Every December brings certain guarantees.

After thinking about it I came up with the following list:

- Tunnel found sticking to pant legs grows proportionately to the dwindling number of shopping days left till Christmas.
- The dwindling number of shopping days till Christmas drops proportionately to the dwindling size of bank accounts.
- For some mysterious reason kids under the age of 10 are overcome with good behavior during the first three weeks of December. (This mood changes as of the 26th.)
- The first Christmas card you'll receive each year will be from the salesman who sold you the car you bought three cars ago.
- The second card will be from a business you never heard of, and addressed to "Dear Friend."
- The third card will be from the very wealthy aunt that you forgot to send a card to the last four years.
- If you're a man, you won't start Christmas shopping until the 24th. If you're a grandmother, you finished in October. If you're my wife you started Dec. 26th and are still working on it.
- You'll stand back proudly

admiring the single string of Christmas lights you just tacked on the outside of your house, unaware that the neighbor across the street is about to reconstruct the lighting pattern of Caesar's Palace.

You'll invite the same neighbor over to show off your newly decorated Christmas tree, only to hear him say, "Oh yeah, we had a tree like that ... once."

For the 47th time, the kids will make you sit through "Frosty the Snowman," and you'll realize you still like it. This, of course will be followed by screenings of "Rudolph, the Red-Nosed Reindeer," "Charlie Brown's Christmas" and daily shavings of "It's a Wonderful Life."

You'll see an increase in the number of people who say, "I'll just be glad when it's over." These are the same people who scoff at putting money in the Salvation Army kettle; put up those ridiculous, 2-foot artificial trees; and don't stop for old ladies at crosswalks.

Granite Citian's life fine example of Throughout his long life, Homer Huber played an active role in private governmental programs that were intended to make the Quad City area a better community.

His sudden death Dec. 2 is an occasion of great sadness.

It is a pleasure to call attention to his life and the untold number of selfless endeavors — a busy lifetime that is inspiring to those who knew him and also to those who did not.

SPANNING A.L. but nine years of Granite City's 55-year municipal history, Homer's life coincided with — and helped formulate — an incredible range of tangible and intangible improvements.

Take, for example, public education. His leadership in advanced degrees, but he was involved constructively when and where it counted.

He rose to the presidency of the Nameoki school district, one of a dozen that was formed in the local area east of the Granite City elementary district. Some operated one-classroom school buildings, although Nameoki was much larger.

When it became appropriate to merge districts, Granite City Community Unit District 9 was formed in 1960 by joining together the grade and high school districts with the smaller school systems.

Huber remained a supporter and later became president of the combined Granite City district.

FOR NEARLY FIVE decades a local furniture store operator, he founded with Roy Feder the Feder-Huber Furniture Co. For a number of years he knew nearly every family in town, but later concluded that the community had grown so big he could no longer make that claim.

What there was a pressing need for bus transportation to serve the public, he helped create the Nameoki Transit Company, later known as the Community Coach Co.

It later was acquired by the Bi-State Transit System, the Illinois-Missouri bus service provided by the Bi-State Development

Congress did much to help Metro East area

To the editor:

On Nov. 22, 1989, the first session of the 101st Congress adjourned for the year. I wanted to pass along to you and your readers some of the measures approved this Congress that will benefit Southwestern Illinois and the nation.

During the year, we won congressional approval for several local projects to improve our region. These included $67.5 million for the Metro Link light-rail system, and $100 million for the Price Lock & Dam near Alton, as well as $16 million for improved family housing at Scott Air Force Base and the Mel Price Army depot.

Progress was made in the effort to establish a National Park on the Mississippi riverfront. After several meetings, U.S. Secretary of Interior Manuel Lujan has agreed to designate certain lands in the region as part of the Jefferson National Expansion Memorial, the park surrounding the Gateway Arch.

It is my hope that we can make an Illinois extension a reality, to provide recreation as well as a cornerstone for future economic development.

In June, Congress gave Southwestern Illinois a boost by passing my legislation to authorize a federal land swap in Madison County, paving the way for a marina on the Mississippi River. This new facility will bring jobs to the area and be a welcome attraction for tourists.

There were also several bills of national importance which Congress passed this year. One which I feel is important to many middle- and lower-income Illinoisans will increase the minimum wage. Under the new bill, the minimum wage will increase to $4.25 over two years. It was a timely measure; legislation to raise the minimum wage hadn't been passed since 1977.

In addition, Congress brought relief to many businesses with repeal of "Section 89," an onerous tax provision that has proved a major headache to many small businesses. And we raised funding for anti-drug programs to an unprecedented level for drug education, one area I feel is crucial.

Congress also worked with the President to overhaul the nation's nutrition programs, giving more assistance to pregnant women and young infants to reduce infant mortality and improve education. Illinois has one of the highest infant death rates in the nation, and programs like these will be of great benefit.

I intend to continue the fight for federal funds for local projects next year, and to work for legislation to improve our economy, child and health care, and education. Your input and the suggestions of your readers will be important in this effort.

U.S. REP. JERRY COSTELLO

Some facts forgotten in university golf debate

To the editor:

Fairly extensive coverage of the proposal for establishment of a golf course at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville has largely ignored some important information.

First, a decision to build a golf course is a long way off. Such a decision would come after bids have been called for and received and after it has been determined that one or more bids meet the university's criteria.

All that has happened so far is that SIUE has begun the process of identifying a piece of land that might be appropriate for a course.

Second, there has been some misunderstanding concerning a possible golf course site south of Circle Drive and west of South University Drive.

Part of that site closest to South University Drive has been reserved for dormitories. A golf course could be set on a portion of the 300 or so remaining acres.

But golf courses require only 160 to 180 acres. The rest would be left as a natural area.

Furthermore, in laying out the course, care would be taken to maintain some of the natural preserves. Trails serving these natural areas would be upgraded so that more people could use them.

It is not the university's intent to disrupt wilderness. Most of the land that would be used for a golf course is clear now or was used for cattle grazing or farming until about 30 years ago. The oldest forest, dating back about 90 years, would be carefully preserved.

One of the best things about the proposed golf course is that it would come to SIUE without expenditure of state funds. At the end of the lease, the course would come under full university control, for continued university use or for some other purpose.

During the next few months, SIUE will be carrying its investigation further. Four other possible campus golf course sites will be examined.

Actual proposals from potential golf course developers and managers will be requested. Three public hearings for members of the campus community and the general population are scheduled for Dec. 6 and 7. It will be at least March before a proposal is sent to the Board of Trustees.

Until then, SIUE will be proceeding carefully in the hope that a way can be found to add a facility to the campus that will bring a substantial amenity to the region, as well as benefit the university's intercollegiate athletic activities, physical education curriculum and campus recreation programs.

Candidate appreciates support by Venice voters

To the editor:

To the citizens of Venice School District No. 3, I would like to thank you for electing me as one of your school board members.

Without your support and votes, I would not have won.

I am willing to work with the other board members to see that our children will continue to have the best education. Again, thank you and pray for me.

unselfish service as citizen, leader

REPUBLICANS constitute only a small fraction of the population here and in most of Madison County.

But Homer, a Republican, never let that stop him from serving.

With four of the seven Tri-City Regional Port District board members being appointed by the governor, and with the executive mansion occupied by Republicans, all but four of the past 21 years, Homer had the opportunity to serve on the board for most of that time.

As you might have guessed, he served for a number of years as the Sunset Hill Cemetery board member. He was also a member of the City Plan Commission.

His activities also included the Sunset Hill Cemetery board, a bank board, the Masonic order, the White Shrine, the Eastern Star and the Chamber of Commerce.

OTHER LOCAL CITIZENS could be recalled in similarly glowing terms, but for this week it seems right to focus on Homer Huber and his accomplishments.

He was only a man, but what a busy and effective and considerate man he was. The Quad City area will miss him.

Fortunately, his career in business and government and his volunteerism will live on indefinitely as a guide to others who wish to express their regard for their fellow residents through service and leadership.

A FOOTNOTE should be added to last week's column. My view of the future is getting much brighter as my vision improves.

Somehow I overlooked mentioning Dr. Benjamin Rose and Dr. Harold Schreiber.

He ultimately advanced to the presidency of the Associated Retailers.

For a number of years, the Associated Retailers had held a yearly banquet at which a Civic Achievement Award was presented to this community's most outstanding citizen.

Homer also headed a number of other organizations, including the Granite City Rotary Club.

THE LAW AND YOU

BY RICK REED
Attorney At Law

Sometimes an employee will be injured while off the premises of his employer. The question that arises in these cases is whether such an injury arises out of and in the course of the worker's employment. In other words, can a person be injured off-premises and still collect benefits under the Workers' Compensation Act?

In one recent case, a woman worked as a relief manager for a theatre chain. On the night in question, the employee decided to take her break at 7:30 p.m. She and her supervisor went to the Burger King restaurant across the street to have dinner. At the restaurant, they discussed business matters. At 8:30 p.m., she and her supervisor headed back to the theatre, with the intention of stopping at one of the cinemas on the way to pick up some box office reports. As she walked down the alley leading from the Burger King, she slipped and fell on some ice. It was later revealed that she had broken her arm.

The employee filed a Workers' Compensation claim. The employer argued that the employee was not entitled to benefits in that her accident had not arisen out of and in the course of her employment. The employee maintained that since her trip back from the restaurant served a business purpose, she was entitled to compensation. Generally, off-premises injuries incurred while going to and coming from an unpaid dinner break are not compensable under the Illinois Workers' Compensation Act. However, an exception to this rule exists when the trip is occasioned by the demands of the employment.

The Appellate Court affirmed the decision of the arbitrator in finding that the injury did not arise out of and in the course of the worker's employment. The Court noted that the employee went to the restaurant of her own volition, and the trip was not occasioned by the demands of her employment. The Court felt that she would have undertaken her trip regardless of whether she planned to go to the theatre on the way back. Finally, despite the fact that the employee was joined by other employees and discussed "shop" during her break, the evidence did not demonstrate that her trip either benefited or accommodated her employer. For all of these reasons, the Court felt that the injured worker was not entitled to Workers' Compensation benefits.

Currently, the members of the Library Board are appointed by the mayor.

Coleman said members of the board would be decided by voters after the district is formed. The district would have to carry its own liability insurance and retain legal counsel.

Coleman said the Library Board will continue to push for the regional district and elected trustees.

At its next meeting Dec. 12, the board plans to decide what steps to take and what needs to be done to explain the proposal to voters.

and educational opportunities," said Robert Brown, a professor in the school of dental medicine.

Soccer coach Ed Hueneke said he favored the plan.

"This is good for recruitment and retention. Image is a big thing to a high school senior and this will help our image," he said.

But a member of the English faculty said the discussion on building a golf course clouds more important issues.

"This discussion takes away from what a university should be engaged in, including recruiting and retaining people for whom golf is not a very high priority," he said.

But students voiced the most pointed observations about the project.

"It is an outrage to disturb the nature trail. When the state 'stole' through eminent domain the land that is now SIUE, it was to be used for educational purposes, not for private enterprise and development," a student said.

Lawsuit

(Continued from Page 1A) rate at the electrostatic precipitator at the Basic Oxygen Furnace was 651,000 cubic feet per minute, exceeding the 550,000 cubic feet limit set in the operating permit. The suit seeks a $10,000 penalty.

Uncaptured fugitive and stack emissions from Battery A at the coke (blast furnace) oven exceeded the legal opacity limits on Sept. 29, 1988. The suit seeks a $10,000 penalty and an additional $1,000 for each day the violation continued.

Recorded readings of particulate emissions in excess of the maximum limits were recorded by an opacity monitor at the electrostatic precipitator at the Basic Oxygen Furnace during May 1989. The suit seeks a $10,000 penalty and an additional $1,000 for each day the violation continued.

Orsey said the likely next step would be for Granite City Steel to file response motions and the state and company would begin exchanging documentation. Ultimately, Orsey said, a court date could be set or Granite City Steel could agree to negotiate an out-of-court settlement.

Granite City Steel settled out of court with the attorney general in September on an unrelated pollution case involving an out-of-court landfill.

"Enough is enough (of this dollars-and-cents mentality) that makes this development seem productive to the ignorant," he said.

Several alternative sites around the campus area have been targeted for study, and the university will ask potential developers for proposals before final action on any proposed site is taken.

Church Women looks to new year

Church Women United held its monthly board meeting on Nov. 28 at St. Peter Evangelical United Church of Christ, 21st Street and Cleveland Boulevard, with Dorothy Kinney presiding.

Two new members from Niederrhingen United Methodist Church were welcomed: Florence Stewart and Leona Bell.

The group's Christmas party will be held at St. Peter's potluck lunch. Handcrafted items will be sold. Proceeds from a silent auction will go to the Imperative Program for poverty-stricken women and the chapel at Dwight Prison for Women.

Members of the organization participated in Old Newsboy's Day in November and volunteers will ring bells for the Salvation Army in December.

GRANITE CITY PRESS-RECORD

Lady Warriors stay unbeaten

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

GRANITE CITY — Allen Lobdell is new to coaching basketball, and he has a perfect record so far. But he's certainly not overwhelmed by that yet.

The Lady Warriors raised their record to 4-0 with a 65-57 win over the Collinsville Lady Kahoks at Memorial Gymnasium on Tuesday. But Lobdell realized it was far from a perfect effort and much work needs to be done.

"As a coach, I don't feel all that good yet," he said. "There is still a lot of work to do with this team. The talent is there to make all the plays, but we get into streaks where we lose our composure and don't look too good."

Tuesday's bad streak didn't come until the fourth quarter, by which time the Lady Warriors had an 18-point lead. Collinsville (0-2 in the Southwestern Conference and 2-2 overall) turned up the full-court pressure and forced a bunch of turnovers while shopping into the deficit. But the Lady Kahoks could only get as close as 61-54 with 39 seconds left.

Then Kim Pawlak (16 points, six assists) and Jennifer Cavanaugh (18 points, 12 rebounds) both hit a pair of free throws in the final seconds to keep Granite City's record unblemished. They are 2-0 in the SWC.

"All we wanted to do was to play hard," said Collinsville coach Paul Harrington. "We don't have a lot of size, so we have to go with a three-guard offense for the most part and there's not much help on the bench. But we were able to make it interesting in the fourth quarter, so I'm happy about that."

The Lady Warriors left the Lady Kahoks at the starting gate and took a 14-4 lead after one quarter. Cavanaugh had six points and Collinsville was only 2 for 13 from the field. The Lady Kahoks were only 7 of 31 in the first half as Granite City took a 23-15 lead to the locker room.

It was 48-30 after three quarters before Kari Crnkovich and Caryn Chastain finally started to warm up from the outside for the Lady Kahoks. Crnkovich had 12 points in the fourth quarter, including a pair of three-pointers, and with 20. Chastain had 19 points.

"We just have to get the confidence to shoot," said Harrington. "We didn't have much success in the first half, but they kept trying."

"They got their confidence up at the end," said Lobdell. "He's got a lot of young players over there, but there's some potential. Their big player is only a sophomore."

That's Cheryl Stinchfield, a frequent off-season playmaker. Collinsville scored only four points, however. Collinsville kept firing and Jennifer Schaefer's three-point play with 39 seconds left made it 61-54 before the Lady Warriors were able to hold on. But Lobdell wasn't thrilled by the fourth quarter.

"The turnovers just killed us," he said. "Normally we can handle the pressure, but Addie Lenzi and Pawlak are the keys. We had to get them back in. And then when we broke the press we shot too fast. The problem there is that Cavanaugh is such a thoroughbred that she always gets open. They get carried away with the pace. We just have to sacrifice a quick shot for

Claggett scores 32 as Devils edge Lebanon

VENICE — It's always one of the better games of the high school basketball season, and it was again Tuesday.

The Red Devils and the Lebanon Greyhounds have played some thrillers over the past few seasons, and Tuesday was no exception as Venice hung on for a 77-75 victory in its home opener.

Junior Erwin Claggett pumped in 32 points as the Red Devils improved to 3-0. The Greyhounds fell to 2-1.

The lead changed hands 13 times and it was tied seven times in a predictably fast-paced game. The Greyhounds hit six three-pointers while the Devils countered with four.

"We played a good first half, but we let down a little in the second half, particularly the third quarter," said Venice coach Clinton Harris. "They have three guys who can hit three-pointers."

Junior Doug Schieppe, the son of Lebanon coach John Schieppe, hit three three-pointers and led the Greyhounds with 25 points while Brian Loehring — a transfer from Triad — added 21 points. But Tony Formoso, usually Lebanon's top long-range gunner, was held to 10 points.

"We did a good job on him in the second half," said Venice

Warriors' SWC streak could end vs. Lancers

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

GRANITE CITY — Bill Ohlendorf will try to do his first tryout with Don Eberding couldn't do in his last 21.

The Warriors (4-2) host Belleville East on Friday at Memorial Gymnasium in an 8 p.m. Southwestern Conference game. It's the league opener for both teams, and on the line is a 21-game conference losing streak for Granite City.

"We'll see what we can do about taking care of that," Ohlendorf said after Saturday's 86-58 win over Hazelwood East.

Ohlendorf isn't dwelling on that long streak of SWC losses. This is a different Warrior team, one that looks very capable of laying that streak to rest in the very near future. Like tomorrow.

"We had a very good weekend," Ohlendorf said of a 70-43 win over Triad and the easy win over the Spartans. "Having four games under our belts was a big help against teams that hadn't played. But we're progressing about as I thought."

Sophomore Jeff Smith had his biggest game with 27 points against Hazelwood East and is averaging 13.1 points. Twin brother Brian is averaging 11.0 points and senior point guard John Vukobratovic is averaging 10.6 points while maintaining a steady floor game. Junior Skip

Future college stars featured in Coca-Cola/KMOX Shootout

ST. LOUIS — Seven high school basketball players who will lead their teams into tonight's Coca-Cola/KMOX Shootout have already signed NCAA letters of intent.

Among them were pre-season first-team All-American Anfernee Hardaway of Memphis (Tenn.) Treadwell, a leading candidate for National High School Player of the Year. Hardaway, who will lead Treadwell against Vashon in the fifth of six games at Kiel Auditorium, signed with Memphis State. All-American Shawn Bradley of Emery County, Utah, is the tallest prep player in the nation at 7-5. He has committed to Brigham Young.

The Shootout is the premier high school basketball event of its kind in the country and has been a sellout at 10,000-seat Kiel Auditorium the past three years. It is presented this year by the Coca-Cola Bottling Company of St. Louis Inc. and KMOX Radio. Co-sponsors of the ninth annual event are Shop & Save, South Side National Bank, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and SNI Sports Network.

The 6-7 Hardaway is a Magic Johnson-type point guard who led Memphis Treadwell to a 38-3 record last year and a runner-up spot in the Tennessee state tournament. He averaged 32.6 points and seven assists per game.

Bradley, a 7-5 skyscraper who may still be growing, averaged 25.6 points, 13 rebounds and 11 blocked shots in pacing Emery County to a 24-0 record and a Utah Class 2A title last season. He will play in the Shootout's first-ever midday session.

Also signing early with big-name schools were All-American Brian Reese and Adrian Autry of the Bronx, N.Y., who helped St. Nicholas of Tolentine to a mythical national championship as sophomores in 1988. The 6-6 Reese, a strong baseline player who averaged 22.8 points and nine rebounds last year, will attend North Carolina next year.

The 6-3 Autry, who scored 19 points and handed out six assists per game a year ago, is headed for Syracuse.

Early NCAA signees from the Missouri-Illinois area include Kevin Washington of Souldan, Paul Lusk Jr. of Trenton Wes-clin and Jerry Vanderheydt of Pekin.

Washington will be attending Arkansas State next year. The 6-4 guard led Souldan to 21 wins last season and averaged 23 points and eight rebounds per game.

The 6-4 Lusk, a four-year starter at Wesclin, committed to Iowa. Lusk averaged 32 points per game and was the third-leading scorer in Illinois last season. Wesclin was 24-4 with an all-juniors lineup.

Vanderheydt, a good-shooting 6-9 player, is headed to Creighton. His Pekin team is regarded as one of the top teams in central Illinois and is favored to win the tough Mid-State Conference.

The Shootout is bigger than ever this year, with 12 teams and two sessions included. The two-game midday session, which begins at 11:15 a.m., features Bradley's Emery County team and three area schools. Tickets for the midday session are $5 for general admission.

The four-game evening session, beginning at 5 p.m., will highlight national powers Tolent-

'48 Warriors ruined great show

In the spring of 1948, I thought I had an idea for a sporting event which couldn't fail to fill the St. Louis Arena.

Tom Stanton's Beaumont High School basketball team had just won its second straight Missouri championship. Vergil Fletcher's Collinsville Kahoks were crushing everything in their path and was undefeated in 20 straight games.

Only three games remained: Granite City, Madison and Anna-Jonesboro. The Warriors appeared to be no problem, having dropped a 55-31 decision to Collinsville earlier. On the surface, there didn't seem to be the slightest chance that Collinsville wouldn't finish undefeated. The Kahoks had been ranked No. 1 in the state all year.

But the 1947-48 Granite City team was one that had gotten off to a poor start, but suddenly found itself at the end. They had improved so much that I stuck my neck out and predicted an upset. Sure enough, they did it on a last-second shot by Joe Martinez for a 48-47 victory. It ended a 30-game winning streak for Collinsville.

The Warrior starters were Martinez, Frank Kraus, Art Borchers, Jerry Schroder and Paul Sheridan.

I gave up my idea for a post-season showdown between Collinsville and Beaumont even though the Kahoks beat Madison 74-42 and Anna-Jonesboro 48-37. The Kahoks cruised through the regional and sectional, but the killer came when they were beaten 65-50 by Marion in the first round of the state tournament in Champaign.

Even so, it would have been a classic between two coaches I considered the best I've ever covered. Both are still active in their retirement. Stanton plays a weekly par round of golf at Arlington.

By the way, in checking to see if Frank Scharitzoff was on the Warrior cage team, I stumbled on an interesting piece of news. Frank had graduated the year before, but was the third baseman on the 1947 Warrior team which had a record good enough to qualify for post-season play if the athletic department had done the necessary paper work and mailed it in.

The following year Granite City won its only state baseball title. Too bad, Frank.

Tri-City Speedway presents awards

By Joe Senter

Correspondent

Bert Cheatham, John Seets and Dave Jones were honored at the Tri-City Speedway awards banquet on Saturday before a large crowd of racers and fans.

Cheatham was honored for the second year in a row as the U.M.P. late model stock car champion at Tri-City. His car was sponsored by the Althoff Trucking Co. and Bob Quinn's Auto Bargain Center. Second was Jim Durbin, who hopes to run more races in 1990 with the World of Outlaws stock cars and is building a new car. Mike Wallace, who missed several local races this season while racing with the big boys, finished third. He plans to return to a full schedule of local races next year.

Kevin Gundaker, Ron Fisher, John Prior and Chris Bargetzi were named to the top seven. Nathan Hall was chosen rookie of the year.

Seets took top honors in the U.M.P. econo late models in his car sponsored by Conroy Trucking Co. Rounding out the top ten in that class were Randy Korte, Don Carter, Rick Bayer, Gary Archambault, Mike Cooksey, Terry Miller, Tom Seets, Paul Humphrey and Darren Forrest. Matt Taylor of Springfield was rookie of the year.

Jones, of Godfrey, was the championship trophy winner in the street stock cars. He drove a Camaro built by Dave Watters and sponsored by Performance Automotive/Ken Edwards Auto Sales and D.J. Truck & Auto Repair. Following Jones in the street stocks was Don McElroy Jr., Jim Lafferty, Rick Rhoades, Maury Bargetzi, Rick Carter, Bill Vinyard, Jim Martin, Kevin Barnett and Marty Kopp. Kevin Barnett was rookie of the year.

Tom and Laverne Primas were chosen for the Spirit of Auto Racing Award. The 110 percent award went to Rick Simmons.

Ann Simmons and Carol Colman were the banquet coordinators. Next season will open on April 20-21 with an open house, practice and qualifying, and a $5,000 U.M.P. late model stock car spring national on Saturday night.

March Madness video on sale

By Jim Woodcock

Staff writer

Basketball fans who already find themselves craving March Madness can get their fix for $29.95.

That's the price of "March Madness," a new two-hour videotape that presents the history of the IHSA basketball tournament since 1908.

Collinsville and Quincy are currently the only two high schools where the tape may be purchased. Collinsville athletic director Frank Pitot said Collinsville got priority to sell the tape because the school cooperated in providing material for the video.

The production of the tape was financed in part by the Chicago Sun-Times. It features film and still shots of Illinois high school basketball, including a team picture chronology of all state champions.

The IHSA describes the tape as featuring "the last-second shots, the great teams, the players and coaches and the greatest moments."

"They did a real good job with Collinsville, coach (Vergil) Fletcher and the guys," Pitot said. "I'm impressed with it. Of course, I can relate to a lot of it."

Other schools prominently featured in the video include East St. Louis, Quincy, Centralia, Mount Vernon and schools from Chicago, Peoria, Springfield and Rockford.

Among the stars on the tape are Lou Boudreau, Quinn Buckner, Isiah Thomas, Paul Juddson, Phil Juddson, Mike Eddleman and others.

The tape can be purchased at the Collinsville High School athletic department during regular school hours. For more information, call 346-6337 or write to Kost/Alumni, 222 W. Ontario, Chicago, IL, 60610.

Birdsong and senior Joe Wallace have played their roles well as the other two starters while junior Bobby Thomas has provided help off the bench. He scored 14 points in a non-starting role against Triad.

All of this means the Warriors aren't desperate for the return of Matt Cook, although they will welcome back last year's leading scorer when he's ready. The 5-11 senior three-point specialist underwent surgery on both knees Nov. 21. He's off the crutches now and is hoping to play in the Collinsville Christmas Tournament.

"Matt's getting anxious," said Ohlendorf. "We'll welcome his addition. He will just add to what we already have going. The kids have certainly picked up his share, but he's still a senior leader we need."

Cook's absence certainly isn't as glaring as it would have been last year.

"I'm sure Matt is noticing how well everybody else is doing," said assistant coach John Van Buskirk. "He will have to work hard when he gets back. And he will. That's the kind of kid Matt is."

Ohlendorf said he hopes to have Cook practicing with the team the week before Christmas so he can work him into the tournament. Pairings for the tournament will be made either this weekend or next.

By the time Santa has made his rounds, Ohlendorf is hoping the Warriors can be at least 8-3. That will take some of this weekend over Belleville East and Wood River (on the road Saturday at 8 p.m.).

The Lancers (1-1) beat Carbondale 61-57 last weekend as 6-1 senior Galen Goss (17 points), 6-4 senior Aaron Friedrich (16) and 6-1 senior Mike King (14) all were in double figures. And their best player just might be 6-5 junior Gary Sney. Devoen Cotton, a 6-0 senior, is the other starter. Gone to graduation is old Warrior nemesis Bernell Love. East is coached by Jim Reynolds.

Wood River (1-2), coached by Greg Moats, is led by 6-4 junior Brock Hendricks.

The Madison Trojans (1-0) will host Alton on Friday at 8 p.m. in what figures to be a run-and-gun game from start to finish.

The Trojans knocked off Northwest 73-50 on Friday, while the Redbirds are 1-1, winning at Cahokia 72-70 last Friday on a last-second shot by Eddie Rounds and then losing 70-68 to Belleville Althoff on Saturday when another shot at the buzzer by Rounds went in but was released after the buzzer sound.

Senior Kevin Caldwell is a big-time college prospect for Stan McAfoos' team. He had 36 points at Cahokia. The Trojans also play at Hillsboro at 8 p.m. Saturday.

the first half and kept him scoreless," said Harris.

Sophomore Ivan Johnson added 15 points for the Devils while senior Charles Miller had 12. Senior guard John White had eight assists. But Claggett was the main man, particularly down the stretch. The Devils led by 13 points early in the third quarter before Lebanon battled back and led briefly twice in the fourth quarter.

Claggett hit five points in a row for a 73-66 lead before Schieppe and Lechring hit consecutive three-pointers to make it 75-72 with 41 seconds left. Claggett then nailed a pair of free throws to provide enough margin to withstand Eddie Rhoden's three-pointer in the final seconds.

"We were 13 of 21 from the free-throw line, so we could still be better there," said Harris.

"We missed three one-and-ones. We wanted Claggett to have the ball at the end, but everyone has the opportunity to score for us. We still made a lot of silly mistakes and got tired at the end. They have to get in better condition."

Lebanon committed 21 turnovers to offset its size advantage over the Devils.

NOTES: Venice's scheduled game Friday at O'Fallon Tech has been switched to next Wednesday at 4:30 p.m. That will be varsity only at O'Fallon Tech in St. Louis. The Devils' next game is Tuesday when they travel to East St. Louis Lincoln to take on the three-time defending Illinois Class AA champion Tigers (2-1).

some time off the clock."

The Lady Kahoks are without senior Jamie Casillas, who averaged 11.9 points last year and gave them more size. She quit the team to devote more time to soccer.

"Jamie was just going in too many directions," said Harrington. "I would have pressed right from the start if we had the depth."

"Granite City has some fine senior players. Cavanaugh and Pawlak are two of the best and (Priscilla) Meyenburg is very aggressive. They have a legitimate shot at Belleville West if they keep it close and shoot well."

"Priscilla and Michelle (Bequette) were just dynamite on the boards tonight," said Lobdell. "And Michelle is shooting a little more arc on her shot. Everyone on this team has a free rein to shoot."

Meyenburg had 13 points and Bequette had eight. Jennifer Wortham went down late in the game with an ankle injury. Freshman Vickie Brandt also hurt her ankle in the freshman game.

"Those are two injuries we didn't need," said Lobdell. "Our freshman team was thin as it was. Now I might be recruiting girls in the hall."

The Lady Warriors play at Riverview Gardens tonight (junior varsity tipoff is 4 p.m.) while the Lady Kahoks play Edwardsville tonight.
